

McNally Robinson opening postponed by developer

The planned opening of book retailer McNally Robinson in the new Don Mills Centre retail complex has been postponed to April 2009, according to an article in Winnipeg Free Press. Click here to read the article.

"...the opening has been postponed from October 2008 to April 2009 by developer Cadillac Fairview," says the article.

"They tell us they're behind schedule on so many things," co-owner Holly McNally is quoted. "All the snow this winter has been a problem."

Good morning, Cadillac Fairview! This is Canada, and winters are cold and snowy!

If snow is making work difficult for construction crews, will it not also be a problem for those trying to shop when the stores eventually open?
